seems in some measure to support the conclusion I have arrived at, viz., that the form of writ was sufficient. It follows that the judgments, as there conformed to the writs, are in point of form sufficient also, but it is suggested that they are

FAILED.
The Acting Attorney-General, Mr. A. J. Leach, instructed by Mr. Hastings (Wotton and Deacon) applied on behalf of the Hon. E. R. Bellillo for an interim injunction. In suit 64 of 1893, Bellillo issued in the original suit on October 10th, but in spite of that the building was continued.

Mr. Francis :—Well, what was the writ for?

Mr. Leach :—For an injunction or damages.

so plaintiff gave notice that he would apply for a mandatory injunction, to pull down such of the building as had been built after the writ was issued.

Mr. Francis said that, even if a mandatory the Hon. E. X. Bailett, plaintiff, which was to the effect that he was a merchant, carrying on with Mr. Danby's affidavit, defendant's building could only slightly affect the east side of the window.

Mr. Leach then read the affidavits made in defence. Mr. John Lemm stated that he was in possible before the Court could stop him. Plaintiff therefore asked for a mandatory order, to pull down so much as had been thus improperly rushed up.

THE TYTAM TIGER.

The villagers in that region were terribly scared. Last year Inspector Mann shot an awful monster of this sort near Shau-ki-wan and after the brute was dead it was discovered to be a stray dog. During the this 'week' had lacao, and the few of them were to swim from lacao to Hongkong, they would no doubt be hungry on land, and that might account for the attack on the girl.

Anyhow, the Stanley village terror must be something out of the ordinary, for when the police went out to meet it, and get scared and aimed wildly at the wide world, they missed the world and his theme—'at least, luckless Godfrey did. It would hardly be fair to blame the tiger for that, or charge the brute with causing damage to Crown property.

In view of the serious aspect of affairs, we specially despatched our Only Goat to interview the tiger, and return if possible. The life insurance companies refused to give us a quotation, saying the article was of no value. However, the Goat came back—(he says so, at any rate, though we don't know where he came back from; he says from the tiger, but we have our doubts)—and handed in the following report, which we challenge the Daily Press to crib.

Our correspondent called this morning on the Tiger, which is now one of the lions of the place and had to be interviewed regardless of expense. We found the Tiger not at home, which was our first mistake.

The house-boy said we might find him at the Club, probably on the front veranda, giving the girls a treat.

At last we found the Tiger, and proceeded to bolt—no, that was a slip—the tongue—to boldly ask him a few leading questions:—

What was he doing in the show business? Mr. Tiger—up in the show business?

Not much. I am a Government official. Oh, pardon. And how do you like Hongkong so far?

Pleasant enough, but too full. Who is too full—You or we?

No, idiot! Hongkong is too full of people in my line. For instance, those special jurors, and M.

Excuse me, Mr. Tiger (said the Goat timidly), no libels, please, for the O'Hodgkin MacDonnell got our last victim here, and the Shell-back Whopper is waiting to get his coolies new uniforms out of our next. Change the subject—how's your liver?

Well, sluggish. I want a whisky and soda, but not being a bank clerk I would have to pay, and like all true mongrels I prefer bummung.

At this point the Only Goat withdrew, as the feet of the Police Hunting Party were seen looming up over the horizon, and the pipes were heard, playing "Jessie's Dream," or "The Wild MacTavish's song," the worst of all the lot. Not wishing to be seen in the company of doubtful characters, William Capricornus performed the Vanishing Act. Liabilities unknown.

NEWS BY THE AMERICAN MAIL.

The Occidental and Oriental Co.'s steamship Belgic, Capt. Wm. H. Walker, with the American mails of the 6th October, arrived in port last night. We are indebted for the subjoined telegrams to our San Francisco exchanges:—

LONDON, September 28th. In an article published to-day, Redmond, leader of the Parnellites, declares that the Parnellites are the Executive responsible to the Parliament on purely Imperial questions. The Parnellites are the Executive responsible to the Parliament on purely Imperial questions. The Parnellites are the Executive responsible to the Parliament on purely Imperial questions. MADRID, September 28th. At the monastery near which Ignatius Loyola, the founder of the Society of Jesus, was born, the provincials of that order from all parts of the world have assembled to select a successor to the late Father Martin, a Spaniard, who has been elected general of the Society, but that those engaged with the election are bound by oath not to reveal the name until the official announcement next Sunday.

Count Eugene de Mikiewicz will, in a day or two, be forced to appear once more as a defendant in a criminal proceeding, the efforts of certain persons who say they have been swindled by him to secure his acquittal.

The preliminary proceedings were taken yesterday by Charles R. Burke, a Brooklyn lawyer, who represents clients who say they have been swindled out of a total of $100,000 by Mikiewicz. Mr. Burke secured a warrant at the Tombs for the arrest of Mikiewicz on the charge of grand larceny in the first degree, and will proceed to Washington with extradition papers this evening.

By representing himself as being connected with Elliott F. Sheppard and Jesse Grant the Count secured the sum named from different individuals during the last two years. He said that he, through the Chinese Minister, would secure valuable concessions from the Chinese Government, railroad, telegraphic and otherwise.

In the complaints made in court the Chinese Minister, Tsui Kwong Yin, is accused of complicity, but he cannot be arrested under the International laws. Secretary Foster decided that point a few days ago.

WASHINGTON, September 28th. The last jacket was slipped off the breech of the great thirteen-inch gun of the Washington Navy Yard yesterday, and the immense piece of ordnance is now nearing completion. The gun will be the largest ever made in this country by the "building-up" process. Its length is forty feet. The diameter at the breech is an inch more than four feet, and it tapers to a thickness of twenty-one inches at the muzzle. When finished the gun will weigh 180,000 pounds.

It requires more than a quarter of a ton of powder for one discharge, but a ton of powder is a shell weighing 1000 pounds a distance of twelve or thirteen miles at the extraordinary velocity of 2100 feet a second. The gun has been six months in construction.

DUBLIN, September 28th. The Irish Lord Chancellor has appointed six new magistrates for the city of Cork, all of whom are Catholics. Until Monday's appointment as Chief Secretary of Ireland the magistrates of Ireland, with scarcely an exception, were Tories.

BELGRADE, September 28th. The body of an abandoned woman was found yesterday in a sand pit near Charlottenberg. It was mutilated after the manner of "Jack the Ripper." This is the second case of the kind recently committed here, and there is no clue to the perpetrators. Apprehension is felt that "Jack" is here.

SMOLSKY, a prominent Progressist member of the Serbian Chamber of Deputies, has been murdered at Kraljevo. The Mayor of that town has been arrested on suspicion.

OTTAWA, September 28th. Notwithstanding a denial from London that a British man-of-war has been sent to Siberia to secure the release of Canadian seamen supposed to be held by the Russians, Hon. C. H. Tupper, Canadian Minister of Marine, says the man-of-war is now on his way there.

LONDON, September 28th. The Duke of Argyll replies in the Times to Gladstone's North American Review article. "That article," he says, "instead of refuting, furnishes valuable confirmation of my argument. That argument was not addressed to American politicians, but the friends of quite a different class. I know the influences guiding American politics, and therefore attach no importance to the opinion of the Review. We are not going to remodel our constitution in deference to the opinion of American politicians."

The writer proceeds to argue that he was at the time of the American civil war in full sympathy with the North on the question of slavery. The question at first did not turn on slavery, but the right of secession, upon which he had doubts until M. Hey convinced him that no part of the Union had the smallest right to secede without common consent.

"Gladstone," he contends, "climbed his argument against himself by claiming that the people of Ireland never assented to the act of union, and that therefore she is entitled to call herself a nation, a title never hitherto given any of our greatest colonies, and never acknowledged as belonging to any State of the Union."

The Welsh newspapers declare that Gladstone has invited an eminent Welsh ecclesiastic to draft a bill disestablishing the church in Wales. They add that the bill will be prepared in a manner acceptable to the Welsh clergy.

Twenty-three new magistrates have been appointed for Ireland, all followers of McCarthy. The Newmarket handicap was won by Baron de Hirsch's colt Windgall. T. G. Hay's colt His Honor second, Lord Penrhyn's colt Chessallan third.

The coroner's jury in the case of Dr. Heron, the army surgeon who was found dead last Sunday, returned a verdict that he killed himself while insane. The coroner read a letter from Dr. Heron, written Saturday night. In this he said: "There was no intention of separation between me and Miss Russell; therefore I will join her as quickly as possible. I have no doubt that her death was not due to natural causes. Existence to me would not be worth having if, through myself, my promised bride committed suicide. I therefore take an overdose of morphine."

BERLIN, September 28th. The German press, which is not as quick to reflect the thoughts and movements of the hour as its English and American rivals, has at last awakened to the fact that an attempt to tamper with the universal suffrage system of the empire had been manifest of late in high places.

The Bohrer's Zeitung, a liberal organ, now takes up the tale. It has just discovered that the principle of universal suffrage has been in the hands of the Rhenish Catholics, gives much space to the question, and in a lengthy and suggestive leader on the threatened abolition of the present mode of voting the Volks Zeitung remarks: "It would mean nothing less than the enslaving of the working classes neatly disguised in the fashion of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The consequence would be revolution, a real living revolution. An institution like universal suffrage may be introduced, but once they have struck their roots in the land they cannot be abolished. Workmen can never be deprived of their rights to vote. Only most erratic fancies imagine that such plans can be executed without a disturbance of the peace."

VENICE, September 28th. A man named Schembri, who committed suicide prior to his arrest, was the perpetrator of a series of murders and robberies in this city. The crimes were committed by daylight, the victims including a jeweller named Schütz. In February last, an inn-keeper at Fiumana, a port of the episcopal palace at Stepienplatz, and a watchmaker's assistant, murdered last week. The murderer was a Sicilian. He also committed several murders in Buenos Ayres.

LIVERPOOL, September 28th. The British steamer Highland Chief, from Buenos Ayres, reports that on September 18th she met the British tank steamer Bayonne, which was on fire. Part of the Bayonne's crew had taken to the boats. The Highland Chief waited till the fire was quenched. While she was standing by a boat was swamped and five persons were drowned.

LEITH, September 28th. The King of Siam's new cruiser-yacht of 2400 tons, built by Messrs. Ramage and Ferguson, went on a trial trip to-day with a large company on board. She attained a speed of fourteen and three-quarter knots. All of her guns were tested, and gave the highest satisfaction. The vessel is magnificently furnished throughout. She leaves for Siam in ten days to be turned over to her royal owner.

BERLIN, September 30th. A professor in the Epileptoid Hospital, Hamburg, has reported his experience in the treatment of 3000 cholera patients. He declares all wanted remedies useless, including salol, creosote, hydrochloric acid and iodo-acetic acid. The injection of sulphuric acid and morphia, as suggested, but in mild cases failed. He concludes that all methods aiming merely at the disinfection of the intestines fail. That remedies must be sought which remove the choleraic bacilli from the intestines. He mentions hot baths, hot coffee, tea, wine, champagne and champagne as useful in critical cases, and adds that the injection of a solution of common salt cured 25 per cent of the cases.

Professor Kless of Zurich, who has been treating patients in Hamburg with injections of fluid obtained through the culture of cholera bacilli, states that after the injection of the fluid the temperature of the patient soon becomes normal and several apparently hopeless cases recovered under this treatment.

LONDON, October 1st. Yates Thompson has sold the Pail Mail Gazette to Knollys, a member of the National Union Club. It is rumored that the paper is to become Liberal Unionist in its politics.

NEW YORK, October 1st. The reported murder of Captain George P. Buckley and his wife by members of the crew of the bark William Hall, from New York July 11th to Cape Town, was confirmed to-day. The agents of the vessel, M. P. Smith & Co. of 41 South street, received a telegram from Cape Town stating that the captain and his wife had been killed by the Chinese steward, Ah Jow. No particulars were given of the butchery, but as stated yesterday the belief is that Captain Buckley deprived the Chinese of his opinion and the latter became insane in consequence. The message, according to Mr. Smith, contained only the following three words: "Steward—murder—suicide."

Mr. Smith's interpretation of the telegram is that the steward killed himself after taking the lives of the captain and his wife. Mr. Smith refused to show the dispatch and some men in shipping circles think that there was a malice on board.

THE ICHANG CLAIMS. We learn from Ichang, under date the 19th Oct. that the Commission which was appointed to enquire into, and settle, the claims arising out of last year's riot there has come to an abrupt end, without anything being done.

According to H.M. Minister at Peking, this Commission, which was to consist of H.M. Consul at Ichang and a deputy appointed by the Viceroy, was to put the riot claims through a searching investigation, and thereafter fix the amount of compensation which ought to be paid.

This sum the Chinese authorities were at once to hand over and thus the matter would be closed, whether the parties chiefly concerned were pleased or displeased. In accordance with this understanding H.M. Consul notified the various claimants to have their proofs in order and to hold themselves in readiness to appear before the Commission.

The native gentleman appointed was Yu Ta-fu, the same who represented the Viceroy in connection with the Wuchow riot, and who has had the chief management of the Ichang affair all along. But on the Commission being constituted, it was discovered that deputy Yu Ta-fu had received quite a different set of instructions from the Viceroy from those which were furnished to H.M. Consul by the British Minister.

He, Mr. Yu, had not been sent to investigate, discuss, or settle anything, but simply to make certain offers in respect of certain claims. If these were accepted by the parties concerned, well and good; but if not, he had no further instructions concerning them. Thus the second Ichang Commission came to an abortive ending; although it was so far an improvement on its predecessor, in respect of its being as remarkable for its brevity as the other was for its length. H.M. Consul, under these circumstances, found there was nothing further to be done beyond reporting the matter to Peking, and awaiting instructions; meanwhile Mr. Yu quietly left for his home in Hankow on the evening of the 10th.

The Ichang sufferers are certainly to be pitied. On the principle that half a loaf is better than no bread, it is believed some of them have given into the insulating terms offered, and it is no doubt the idea of the native officials that all will be compelled to follow suit in time, or remain uncompensated. But something has certainly gone very far wrong with the diplomatic relations between the Middle and outer Kingdoms, when Chinese officialdom feels itself at liberty to make sport of a British Minister, and of a serious business like this.

NOTES FROM CHINESE PAPERS. A movement is on foot to start a mint at Tientsin for the coinage of silver currency, similar to the one in Canton. As reported, steps are being taken to erect a suitable building for the purpose in a village near the Foreign Settlement.

A destructive fire occurred outside Kifu on the night of October 22nd. Nearly 40 stores in the busy part of the town were destroyed, and also the telegraph poles which lined the street where the conflagration took place. The total number of houses consumed is estimated to be something like 200.

The Nanking Viceroy is still in Chinkiang and it is stated that he will remain until the arrival of the Kiangsu Governor, with whom the Viceroy will review the defensive and other important works which are in course of construction and those that have already been completed. The Governor-General intends reviewing these works thoroughly and well.

To curtail expenses the Viceroy of Foochow has discharged a large number of people holding but nominal office in the Foochow Arsenal, among whom were teachers and secretaries. About 600 underlings and redundant servants who have been dragging out a parasitical existence at the Arsenal have been dismissed. The turning away of this large army of unnecessary hands will effect a saving of over Tiao, 10,000 a year.

The Kaosien Hutan has won for himself great renown through his efforts in battling against the army of locusts which visited parts of Yangchow this summer. The gentleman in question was recently presented by the farmers with a dedicatory umbrella in recognition of his indelible zeal in his crusade against the vermin, whereby the crops were saved. The Hutan has reason to congratulate himself on having received this gift from this class of people, who very rarely make presents of this kind to their administrators.

A party of three fortune-seekers explored a certain pond in an unfrequented part of Nanking one night not long ago, with the result that two of them were drowned. The trio were strangers to the neighbourhood, but somehow or other they found out that the Tientsin rebellion, a large amount of treasure was emptied into this pond by the people in order to deprive the rebels of the riches. Actuated by the desire to become its possessors, the three repaired to the bank of this pond and with sanguine hopes of success the leader jumped into the water at a spot from which they had seen the glitter of gold. As he did not reappear, the second one followed, while the other one was left to watch on the bank. Some time elapsed, and as nothing was seen either of the treasure or his two comrades, the man who had jumped in cried out for help. On the people around making their appearance the remaining member of the party related to the crowd what had happened and disclosed the object of the search.

How grossly ignorant and superstitious the people of the interior are the following incident furnishes very strong proof—Last year the Kiangsi authorities were ordered by the Board of Public Works to furnish a map of the province. The Treasurer, who is in charge of this work, sent out deputies and surveyors to all parts of the province to obtain data for the proposed map. One of these surveying parties lately had some rough experiences in their endeavours to do their work from the hands of the populace, in the Tientsin Hsien. The deputy and the party of surveyors were attacked and prevented by the people from carrying out their harmless but useful labour of taking bearings. The wild rumour which was the cause of the trouble was to the effect that the party was doing injury to the graves and that the liquid dripping from the instruments with which they take bearings has most destructive properties, so much so that a single drop of it would eat away the bones and other portions of a dead body. The Treasurer on receipt of this news issued a proclamation to put a stop to the circulation of this nonsensical rumour and has forbidden the people to interfere with the work which the surveyors are carrying on.

The Nanking Viceroy arrived at Chinkiang in his man-of-war late on the night of the 10th October and landed early the following morning. A large concourse of mandarins were gathered at the China Merchants' bulk to do honour to his Excellency when he came on shore. The Hsüan, on which it is proposed to erect a fort, is by reason of its commanding position considered a most suitable place for that purpose. The Viceroy's mission to Chinkiang is to be for himself the desirability of putting up another stronghold to guard the Yangtze. It is said that the Governor of Kiangsu will be asked to give his opinion on the subject. It was stated that Kwei, Governor of Kiangsu province, would start from his seat of government on the 22nd October for Nanking, where he would call on the Viceroy on business. On his trip to the southern capital Kwei will first visit the garrison at Whangshu and review the troops there, thence to Wosung to inspect the fortifications, and then proceed to Nanking. The Governor of Kiangsu arrived at Shanghai on the 22nd Oct. and was transferred to the Cantonese Temple in Hongkong immediately after his arrival. The Governor was to go to Wosung to visit the fortifications there.

PEKING. (FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.) 19th October, 1892.

It is over a month since you had any news from the capital. The summer has come and gone, and proved a cool one. The autumn has been very dry and only once had we a blow from the north, with clouds of dust to remind us that we do not live in paradise in any sense. Ours is a city of desolation, filth, and I fear also of disease. We have had a most unpleasant reminder of the latter by an epidemic of continued fever has carried off two of our favourite residents. The fever has been of rather unusual severity. Both the gentlemen whose untimely decease we mourn were great favourites—one was our youngest resident and only recently from home, the other has been here before, and endeared himself to us all by his geniality. He had only recently come amongst us again with a charming young wife. He was quite convalescent from the fever, but from some imprudence in eating and drinking suffered a relapse to which he succumbed. The other patient was on the fair way to recovery. The sudden illness of Mr. Rhein, whose death took place in Shanghai hospital, has added one more gloom to the already thick pall which has hung over us for some time past. He also leaves a young widow and child.

The departure of the British Minister and Lady Walsingham and family, after a residence of six years amongst us, has caused a very regretful feeling. At no time have the honours, amenities and socialities of the British Legation been more or better displayed than during the past period. Sir John Walsingham has most worthily maintained the dignity of the British diplomatic service, and if he has not given in all cases the satisfaction which the merchants have expected, the blame ought not perhaps to attach exclusively to the Minister. His policy is a large one, and is dictated from Downing Street. Our Foreign Office wants a good deal of stiffening up in its China policy. It could bear a good deal more of diplomatic pressure. A rupture with us, from pressing our rights, demanding protection the execution of treaties, and such like, is quite impossible. We should be respected all the more, and the measure of our respect is the measure of the dread which our power exercises in the minds of the higher officials. Russia at the present time is all powerful by virtue of the forthcoming Trans-Siberian Railway. Our position in the south-west ought to secure for us like attention. One advantage of the return of the Minister will be the placing before our Foreign Office the true aspects of Chinese diplomacy and the conduct of the Government in the matter of the late disturbances. The foreign community will doubtless reap benefit in the future from the late Minister's representations at home. The merchants themselves are also largely to blame for their inactivity. The Foreign Ministers are powerless to act, to a very large extent, unless urged to and backed up by their nationals at the ports.

The recent telegraphic conversation between Russia and China by which the Great Northern Telegraphic Company is protected by a high tariff for another ten years, and which is a dead weight against the international treaties, Telegraphic Union rules, and trade in general, is a case in point; not a single protest has yet reached Peking from Shanghai. No protests have been lodged against its ratification by the Chinese Ministers, because no protests have come from those interested in its ratification. If all were known of the active part taken by their Ministers with the Chinese authorities, the complaint would be heard from the merchants. Many of the questions have more sides than one, and although it is the duty of the Foreign Minister to see only the side of his nationals and argue for it, it is very difficult with an astute people like the Chinese to act otherwise than in an upright and honourable way, and to admit that there is something sometimes to be said on the other side. It is proverbially difficult to argue on both sides of a question, and the British Minister was placed in this dilemma on the Telegraphic question by the force of circumstances. In the first place he was the countryman of his Government against it, and again in favour of it when the commercial agitation forced her Majesty's Government to reverse their policy. When the history of Sir John Walsingham's tenure of office is written, a fair estimate will no doubt be formed of his policy. Much of what he wrote could not be published in Blue Books. Throughout his career here he was always characterized as the English gentleman. At first the Chinese Ministers thought him a bit stiff; but they soon came to respect him for his sterling worth, and if he had only been more strongly supported from home he would have made a most successful Minister. Mr. Beauclerk is now in charge, pending the arrival of Mr. O'Connor. He won his spurs here previously on the Burma question. Had he been French Minister, France might have been saved the Tongking embroilment.

Besides the Walsinghams, there has left us Mr. Martin, the Secretary of the U.S. Legation. He is expected back before the close of the navigation. Mr. Bryant and Mr. Spott of the Customs Service have resigned and gone home. Mr. and Mrs. Brady have taken their farewell. Mr. Dug, the Italian Minister, has returned to his Legation. The Italian Minister and family remain with us, instead of leaving us as was intended. The new Italian Legation is almost complete. It occupies the various properties which included the old Netherlands Legation, the Russian Postmaster's quarters, and the original native hotel in Peking, kept at that time by the cook Charles. The fête of the 11th September was celebrated at the hills by the flying of the Russian flag on a flagstaff of the temple Ling Kwang Sa, the firing of guns, and a grand dinner party in the evening in honour of the many day of the Russian Emperor. Mrs. Denby and her young son have returned to the United States, and Colonel Denby has accompanied his family to Shanghai to conjunction with his son, his secretary. The new Club house is almost completed and a new addition by the purchase of land is being made on the east. It is now an excellent long space and place of recreation. Admiral Fremantle is at present here, the guest of the British Legation, and passed Sir Robert Hart's garden party on Wednesday the 18th, and was greatly surprised at the native band accompanying western music. The Russian postmaster has published at St. Petersburg several large works in Russian on the history of the Anglo-American Bible, the Russian ecclesiastical mission at Peking, etc. etc. The Peking Autumn race takes place on the 25th and 26th October. We have at present the usual spring and autumn visitors from Shanghai, viz., Dr. Ward, the dentist, and the representatives of Hall & Holt and Kelly and Walsingham. Tallen's store is now completed and is certainly a handsome building, and well adapted for carrying on a large business.
